PRESENT WITH POWER

The hallmark of people with significant personal presence is that they are themselves. Our courses are designed to equip you with professional techniques, but also to help you discover, connect with, enhance and enjoy your own personal, natural style.

To achieve your own powerful presence and easy authority we invite you to work outside your comfort zones – using techniques from the world of theatre, business and psychology – to build the required awareness and skill set particular to you.

We will show you how to increase your insight, awareness and understanding of your personality style and how to profoundly and persuasively connect with clients, colleagues and the media.

If you or your team need to shine this course is for you. From a two-hour workshop to a two-day course we are here for you.

What clients have said about the work:

‘Everything I would have wanted in one place, even stuff I didn’t realise I wanted.’

‘I wanted more at the end of the day.’

‘I was totally switched on and engaged throughout.’

‘I found working in a group really enhanced the experience for me.’

Outcomes – what participants can expect

- To understand how people think.
- How to shape content which connects with your audiences.
- How freeing up attitudes and beliefs can enhance performance.
- How to be a relaxed, persuasive communicator.

Deborah Clarke and Noa Maxwell have a background in the performing arts and theatre. As well as their theatrical roots, they have both trained with Al Pessa and Lowijs Perquin in Pessa Boyden System Psychomotor (www.pbsp.com) – a mind and body method which uses symbolic processes to create new memories that help resolve past emotional issues. They have also studied the Centaur method with Sandy Cotter, a model which uses archetypal roles to help people gain insight into how personalities are formed.
